

Social Entrepreneurship through the power of Coworking

Our societies are facing more and more challenges such as gender inequality, climate change, unsustainable economies etc.

As a result, within the last years the building of social enterprises is growing oriented to reduce the gaps created in the social fabric along with profitability.

The concept of co-working spaces accelerates the impact of social enterprises through their powerful theory of change, focused on social innovation.

Coworking refers to working in shared offices using economies of scale to give tenants access to facilities and services they would not be able to afford. Coworking spaces connect diverse organizations and individual entrepreneurs, giving them the chance to collaborate and develop solutions to the issues they are trying to address.

Our consortium through our project COWELECTIVE aims to enhance their business activities in terms of social and environmental impact.
